

Visiting the Edgehill Library

The Edgehill Branch Library is small, and has two big rooms. One room is full of books and the other room has computers for kids. I can go in both rooms. When I come and visit, I will try to whisper in the big room full of books. There are people reading and on computers in this room. There are also lots of books for kids. If there is a book I like, I can take the book off the shelf and open it. I will try and put the book in the black bins when I'm done with the book.

The library can get busy and when it does, it can be loud. Lots of kids come in after school is over and they are excited to be at the library. They like to play on the computers in the other room. I can play on these computers too! I will try and wait in line to ask the librarians for a computer. If the room is busy, all of the computers will be full and I might have to wait. But this room has a lot for me. In here, I can read, draw, color, or even play with LEGO bricks.

Sometimes the library won't have what I want and that is okay. I will try and ask the librarians to help me find what I want. The librarians will be very happy to see me. When I am ready to go, I will try and take the books I want up to the counter. The librarians will help me get my books. When I am ready, I can leave the library.
